General Travel Information

DEPARTING FROM SYDNEY

PRE-FLIGHT COVID-19 PCR TEST
- You may be required to provide proof of a negative COVID-19 test prior to departure and/or pre-book tests to be taken following arrival at your destination, depending on the country you are travelling to.
- The testing requirements, including types of acceptable tests and documentation required, are set by the countries you are travelling to and transiting through. Information on PCR testing for each country is available from: https://www.smartraveller.gov.au/

DOCUMENTATION REQUIRED
- A valid International COVID-19 Vaccination Certificate from the Australian Government (retrieved from your Medicare Online Account or the Medicare mobile app). Your domestic Medicare proof of vaccination will not be accepted for international travel.
- A negative pre-departure COVID-19 test result, if required by the country you are travelling to or transiting through.
- Any other documentation applicable to your destination, including passenger declarations and entry forms.

UPDATE TO COVID-19 REGULATIONS
- From 21 June 2022, it is no longer mandatory for international travellers to follow certain rules including taking a COVID-19 test upon arrival in NSW.
- From 17 June 2022, travellers are no longer required to wear a mask in airports in NSW.
- From 9 September 2022, international flights travelling to Australia will no longer be subject to a mask mandate. Travellers are advised that the mask requirements of the airline you are travelling with or the country you are travelling through may vary.

*Please note that international travel conditions and PCR testing requirements are subject to change. To be informed on all up-to-date news, policies and international travel advice on your destination, visit the following link: https://www.smartraveller.gov.au/